

The planes soared away from Pearl Harbor early Thursday, but whether all had gone on to Midway Island, 1,323 miles westward as it was supposed they would do or whether some had stopped at tiny Coral Atolls en route was unknown.

some senate circles of reviving the Vinson bonus bill if an expected veto of the Patman new currency measure should be upheld by the senate.

Republican leaders predicted flatly that the Vinson bill, which was rejected in both house and senate, would be sent by congress to the president if the Patman bill was killed. They forecast also that it would be passed over a veto.

Backers of the Vinson bill, which provides for cash payment of the bonus but leaves the method of financing open, have contended throughout the long bonus controversy that it had a much better chance to pass over a veto than the inflationary Patman bill.

They made this argument to the senate in trying to stop the Patman drive, but the senate would not listen.

Illinois Will Have 405 Delegates G.O.P.
Grass Roots Meeting

Chicago, May 11—(AP)—Illinois will send 405 delegates to the "grass roots" conference of Republicans from nine middle western states at Springfield, Ill., on June 10-11, Edward A. Hayes of Decatur, spokesman for the party in the state, announced today.

Under the apportionment as generally made upon the basis of the 1932 vote for president Cook county will have 182 delegates, with the other 101 counties of the state having 193. The other 30 delegates will be from the state at large in accordance with Illinois having two representatives-at-large.

The delegates, said Hayes, were apportioned on the basis of 15 from each of the 25 congressional districts and 15 for each representative-at-large. Lake county, because it is part of the 10th congressional district, which also includes part of Cook county, will be represented by 7 of the 193 downstate delegates.

MUSIC FESTIVAL
FRIDAY REVEALS
UNUSUAL TALENT

Local Musicians Appeared to Fine Advantage in Two Programs

Selections from Victor Herbert, the immortal Liszt, MacDowell, and Tchaikowsky were among the gems of the Dixon Woman's Club Music Festival program last night at the Masonic Temple. An enthusiastic audience applauded heartily the excellent performances by the youthful artists.

Particularly impressive were the performances of two youngsters, Lester Kieffer, winner in the boy senior class, and Nina Bogue, winner in the girl senior division. Lester played a piano solo, Hungarian Rhapsody No. 11 by Liszt with the finesse of an artist twice his age, and Miss Bogue lent her talent to the spirit of MacDowell's Hezantanz (Witches' Dance) with all the zest her fingers could produce.

Jane Hoefer, winner in the advanced class rendered Caprice-Burlesque by Gabrieli, exhibiting confidence and composure born of many public appearances.

Three choral organizations sang numbers that revealed hours of intense practice and an appreciation of the emotions embodied in the selections. The St. Paul's Lutheran church choir very capably sang a Negro spiritual entitled "Were You There," by Burleigh, and "Beautiful Savior" by Christiansen. Eleanor Chapman was the director.

The Methodist choir, led by Crawford Thomas, gave a pair of sacred numbers, "Hymn to the Trinity," a choral without piano accompaniment, by Tchaikowsky, and "Jesus Only," an anthem by Rotoli. Closing the pleasant evening of music was an airy, joyous number "Greeting to Spring," sung by the Troubadettes, an arrangement of the immortal Blue Danube Waltz by Strauss which expressed vividly the return of the vernal season. Mrs. E. M. Goodsell directed and Mrs. Lyle Prescott accompanied at the piano.

Members of a quintet who had been engaged to play two movements from the Quintet No. 1 in G Major (Opus 2) by Russell Mason, local musician, were unable to be present. Mr. Mason presented two flute solos instead. The senior chorus of St. Anne's church was also unable to appear for a rendition of Agnus Dei, second number.

Perhaps the most accomplished violinist on the evening program was Jean Root, winner of the Illinois State Music contest in 1934-35, who played Wieniawski's Scherzo Tarantella, accompanied by Frances Jennings at the piano, A Concerto No. 9 (First Movement) for violin, was played by Earl Forsberg, winner in the boys' senior class and Cavatina, a violin selection by Roff, was given by Ruth Olds, winner in the girls' senior division, with Winnifred Rawls, accompanist. Donald Zoeller, Franklin Grove, sang "Any Old Port in a Storm," accompanied by Mrs. C. C. Rorick, and Leota Rutt, soprano, represented capably the feminine vocal artists on the program by giving "What's In the Air Today?"

Victor Herbert's Favorites—Dixon-Polo High School Orchestra, Orville Westgro, director.

"Were You There?" (Negro Spiritual) (Burleigh); "Beautiful Savior" (Christiansen)—Lutheran church choir, Eleanor Chapman, director.

Cavatina (Roff)—Ruth Olds, winner of girl senior class, Winnifred Rawls, accompanist.

Concerto No. 9 (First Movement) (De Beriot)—Earl Forsberg, winner of boy senior class, Mrs. William Haeflinger, accompanist.

Hymn to the Trinity (Tchaikowsky); Jesus Only (Rotoli)—Methodist church choir, Crawford Thomas, director.

Any Old Port in a Storm (Mills)—Donald Zoeller, Mrs. C. C. Rorick, accompanist.

Hezantanz (Witches' Dance) (MacDowell)—Nina Bogue, winner of girl senior class; honorable mention, Marion Harms.

DEMOCRATS ARE BLAMED FOR RELIEF SITUATION

poor to feed the poor.

"We condemn the inequality in the distribution of the relief burden among the states by the FERA and the arbitrary and unsound method by which Illinois' allotment was placed at $3,000,000 a month. We object to an emergency tax for relief for twenty-five and a half months in the future, when the direction by the Federal government is to raise $3,000,000 a month, month by month.

Declare All Tax Not Collected.

"Ohio with a sales tax in effect three months has 215,000 payers, Illinois with a million greater population at the end of nearly two years, has but 115,000 sales tax payers, of whom 4,000 pay no tax, and over 12,000 pay less than $1. An efficient administration of the present sales tax, without fear or favor, would increase its returns by possibly 50 per cent.

"The state, if properly managed, should have a sufficient balance on hand to meet this emergency. The present administration had a 50-cent property tax rate for its use in 1933, which was a 30 per cent higher rate than had ever previously existed. The statement of the department of finance, issued under the date of Feb. 4, 1935, says: 'The Governor pointed out that the total ($7,658,915.06 liquor revenue) collected for the year approximately the shrinkage which has occurred in the past years from insurance, corporation taxes, Illinois Central railroad, the state inheritance tax, and various other departmental fees and earnings.'

Say State Should Have Surplus.

"The sales tax, indefinitely administered as it is, will have produced by July 1, 1935, for its first two years, $77,000,000, only $17,000,000 of which was used for relief purposes. The average property tax collected for state purposes, over its last ten years, was $23,000,000 a year or $46,000,000 for the biennium, so that the income from the sales tax replacement was $14,000,000 in cash greater than the property tax it replaced. If the reduction in the state's expenses, of 25 per cent, had been made by the Democratic administration there should be a surplus now of many millions of dollars. Instead there was apparently only $9,000,000 and that, due to the failure of the administration to pay $7,000,000 of the current biennium school appropriation, and $333,000 to the blind pension.

"Neither the FERA nor the state administration has co-operated in an effort to secure a more efficient and economical administration of relief, which in March, 1935, cost $5,000,000, and the estimate for May, 1935, is $14,500,000. The relief commission had 1,400 employees in March, 1932, 3,300 in February, 1933, and 9,800 by its last published report. The IERA has made its first move toward purging the rolls of persons who do not properly belong on them, since this assembly has held up the present tax increase bills.

"Budget Incomplete, Too High."

"The incomplete and inefficient budget submitted by the state administration, after violating the law for over two months by refusal to submit a budget, and giving only totals, asks for approximately $288,000,000 for the next biennium. No part of this estimate of $288,000,000 has been itemized. The appropriation bills are not in. It is our belief that this budget, which is $18,000,000 in excess of the budgets for both the years 1935 and 1937, the peak years of prosperity, could be sufficiently reduced to free all needed funds for relief without additional taxation.

"The Democratic administration has the votes and has had them for a month to put this tax into effect from July 1, 1935, to July 1, 1937. There ought to be a balance in the general fund to meet the present emergency, month to month. Why this demand for 102 votes to keep the tax in effect twenty-five and a half months, instead of twenty-four months? The answer is that the Democratic administration knows that the tax is an unfair and unpopular tax; that it is opposed by those who are upon the relief rolls themselves, who have protested before this legislature against the tax; that it is opposed by the working element still employed and struggling to keep off the relief rolls as placing upon them an undue burden; that it is opposed by every fair-minded student of taxation; that it is advocated only by wealthy individuals and corporations who seek to saddle their proper tax obligations upon the masses of the public who are least able to bear them.

Ultior Motive Seen.

"The Democratic administration seeks to force enough Republicans to vote for this unfair and unpopular measure so that they may claim that it is a bi-partisan non-political enactment and dodge the responsibility which properly should be placed upon their shoulders. This is why they demand the tax with the Republican votes for twenty-five and a half months, instead of taking it with their own votes for twenty-four months.

"We, who are opposing this sales tax increase, are willing to vote today for a sufficient appropriation from the general funds which, while it might reduce that fund to the point that the governor might have to lay off some of his numerous payrolls, yet is sufficient to meet the emergency for two months, but such a bill will not be permitted by the administration to come to a vote. Senate bill 211, which made such an appropriation of $7,500,000 from the general funds, which has already passed the Senate and is now on third reading in the House, was deliberately amended yesterday so that the present temporary

Tired and Retired.

By Joseph Fort Newton.

"S" IR, the man who is tired of London is tired of life," said Dr. Johnson; and anyone who has felt the lure of that lovely old city will agree with his verdict, delivered with a thump of his cane.

But, alas, the man who is tired of life—regarded as a field of adventure and aspiration—is likely to grow tired of London, or of any other city in the world, no matter how fascinating.

Such a man is old, weary, worn out, though he may tell you he is thirty-five. He is really dead and does not know it, whether he be eighteen or eighty. His life has flickered and flashed out.

It is a dreadful thing to retire in the prime of life; retire, not from work, but from any passionate and urgent interest in life. The man to be pitied is the man who does not care which way the world is going, who is not interested in what people are doing or thinking.

Or worst of all, the man who has stopped being curious about himself, about dreams and ambitions for himself; the man who gives up, lets go, and drifts down stream, letting the world wag as it will. "I have prayed the good Lord that He will keep you alive now that you have retired," a little boy wrote to a dearly loved minister who had laid down his work. It was a wise and gracious prayer.

Even in the most matter-of-fact sense there is no prayer more necessary for those who have knocked off the work of life, and called it a day. Freedom? Yes, at first; then aimlessness; and finally boredom and depression—and out goes the flame. It is an old story.

Two things are needed if we are to retire—something to retire on, and something to retire to. Either without the other is well nigh fatal, and it is the second that men so often overlook and forget.

Unless we have habits of study, inner resources laid up, something to fill time and not merely kill it, we are in for a dreary time. It is in that Jesus meant when He said that we must lay up treasure where neither moth nor rust can corrupt, nor thieves steal it away.

Surprise Birthday Party at F. Haenitsch Home Fri.

A surprise birthday party was given Frank Haenitsch Friday evening at his beautiful home east of Franklin Grove when over thirty relatives, neighbors and friends gathered to wish him a happy birthday. The evening was spent in a social way. Bertha and Frances Miller sang "Happy Birthday" to their Grandpa to the pleasure of all present. Generous helpings of ice cream and cake were served. The evening passed quickly and it was a late hour when the group departed for their homes. Everyone expressed their thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Haenitsch for their hospitality.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. William Haenitsch and children, Melvin, Gene and Rose Mary; Rev. and Mrs. William E. R. R. Valley Group Meeting M. E. Aid at Harmon, Thursday

The Rock River Valley group meeting of the Ladies' Aid was held at Harmon, May 9th, with a large attendance. The church at Walnut was the winning church for the banner for the next six months, having 22 in attendance. Dixon was a close contestant as they had 21—almost a tie.

It was a very splendid program and an inspiration to all those who were fortunate in being there. Miss Flora Seals, Dixon, gave a very wonderful devotional period, and it will long be remembered.

Mrs. Mark Reitzel of Sterling told us about our institutions of our conference, after which Rev. Pierce addressed the meeting in words of appreciation for the good work our ladies are doing and stressed the joy in serving Christ.

Mrs. A. J. Bishop of Walnut conducted the Open Forum and each church was asked to tell about the outstanding events of their church during the year. This proved to be a varied program—from Mother and Daughter banquets, quilting bees to hobo parties and white elephant sales, and a "May breakfast" sponsored by the men of the church.

Mrs. Kugler of Harmon gave a solo at this time, "Painting the Picture of Mother." She was accompanied at the piano by her mother, Mrs. J. Wadsworth.

The Harmon ladies then served a very delicious chicken luncheon to all present.

The afternoon session was opened by singing the Association song—"Catch the Vision."

After the business session the meeting was addressed by Mrs. Arthur Krugger of Chicago, who is president of the Methodist Woman's Association. She gave some very helpful remarks and suggestions.

We were then favored with a reading by Mrs. Pappina.

Mrs. Lewis of Amboy gave a short talk on "Our Financial Aspect of the Church," and Mrs. A. I. Hardy gave a most inspiring talk on "Keeping One's Balance."

The meeting was closed by singing "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," with Rev. Godden of Sterling pronouncing the benediction.

Mrs. Chas. Willford of Dixon, presided over the meeting in the absence of the president, Mrs. Albert Antoine, who is ill.

High Lights on The Avenue Today

Feel Loss Keenly

The community feels keenly the loss of such splendid people as Mrs. S. C. Ellis, Dr. E. S. Murphy, and Prof. L. B. Neighbour, all of whom recently passed on. The world reaped benefits from their lives.

"They say that life is a highway. And its milestones are the years—And now and then there's a toll-gate."

Where you buy your way with tears—

It's a rough road, and a steep road, And it stretches broad and far, But at last it comes to a Golden Town where Golden Houses are."

Lilac Queen of the May

As far as colors are concerned, lilac is Queen of the May. Hat designers are featuring lovely, wide-brimmed orchard garden hats in the flattering shade and attractive linen and pique sports models in lilacs to go with white suits and frocks. Printed dress departments show not only silk frocks with lilac backgrounds, but floral prints in patterns that look like the blossoms after which the color is named. For evening, nothing is prettier than a flowing gown of lilac chiffon, interestingly trimmed with clusters of real or artificial violets.

Speaking of lilacs always brings to mind a lovely old yard of our childhood, with fine old pine and hickory trees and many lilac bushes, both purple and white, and one remembers the heavy April rains and many in May and then the sun bursting through on an especially warm day, brought forth the budding lilacs into full bloom, and a sweetness filled the air—that heady yet fresh fragrance will never be forgotten the warm May rain, then sunshine and odor of lilacs in bloom and lovely green things bursting into bloom all around us.

Some weeks later on the little mound by the library door, was the cluster of "bleeding hearts," planted by grandmother, years and years ago, under foot was the trailing myrtle which was so graceful and beautiful in our childish eyes, and which old Hannah, the maid, called "trash," throwing it out the back door as we scraped the mud off our shoes; and finding this so, we immediately sought the mound again for more myrtle and flowering almond—tall spikes of it and entering the front door with better luck encountered lovely, blue eyed mother who took the flowers from warm moist little fingers and arranged them prettily on the dinner table to be admired by the family, and father in particular who could tell stories of each plant and tree in the wonderful old yard. . . . The quaint old English cream colored house of stone, with green blinds, the high lofty ceilings and rooms of such space as to be almost overpowering.

Ascension Day is May 30th

Ascension Day this year will fall on Memorial Day, May 30, the first time such a sequence has occurred this century and the fourth time since 1801. It will occur twice again this century. Easter this year was on Sunday, April 21st. In 1946 and 1957, Ascension Day will occur on Memorial Day and there will be no sequences similar until after the year 2000. The sequence occurred 1867, 1878 and 1889. In the last century, Easter fell on April 25th, in 1886, with Ascension Day following on June 3rd. In 1859, Easter was on April 24th, and Ascension Day on June 2nd, while in 1848, 1905 and 1916, Easter was on April 23rd, and Ascension Day on June 1st. Late Easter and the following Ascension Days, during the remainder of this century, are as follows: 1943, April 25th and June 3rd; 1962, April 23rd and June 1st; 1973 and 1984, April 22nd, and May 31st; 2000, April 23rd, and June 1st.

This Advice Wears Well

A certain grand old gentleman of our acquaintance, one whom we know well, oh, very well, was wont to take the youngsters of the household on a "World Tour," as they called it, around the house, and there were several stopping places of interest which will long remain in the memories of those children, and especially well remembered is niche and stand on which reposed the well known statue of the three little monkeys, with the legend, "Hear no evil, see no evil, speak no evil." We all listened, for evening, nothing is prettier than a flowing gown of lilac chiffon, interestingly trimmed with clusters of real or artificial violets.

From Jackson Avenue

And then there's the story of the Jackson avenue woman who because of her desire to have everything about her house spic and span, isolated the neighborhood from communication with the rest of town one day last week—and incidentally, so friend hubby says, missed an invitation to a happy social function.

This lady didn't realize her innate hobby of cleanliness had such far-reaching effects until a crew of telephone linemen rushed into the district seeking the short circuit which had put many telephones out of service. They finally located it in the lady's basement—she had thoroughly whitewashed everything

MOTHER IS A WORD OF MAGIC MUSIC

BY HELEN WELSHIMER

I do not know why one word is more fair Than other words, but voices when they say That mother word grow sweeter, tenderer,

As though they swing soft light upon the way. And there is rhythm in it—I can hear A prayer begin, a chanted lullaby; Or, all the kind and swift endearing terms That mothers know are gently passing by!

My Mother—all the loveliness I know Is in the sound; firelight, rain and a floor With sunlight on it, and the purple way A lilac bush once grew beside a door. The words can draw me back to holy ground Where strong, tall hills shut all of hurt away. And I am braver than I'll ever be— Is it for this that we keep Mother's Day?

On Keeping Salad Crisp

Here's a spring salad hint. Put your wilted lettuce, romaine, escarole or what have you in a pan of water to which has been added one cup of vinegar. Let stand for half an hour and then take out the greens, all crisply fresh and ready for the salad bowl. Also, wrapping lettuce in a damp towel and sticking the ends of the towel in a bowl of water will keep the lettuce fresh for days at a time.

Holders Keep Corsages

Flower holders for small orchid corsages are new and smart. Looking for all the world like miniature test tubes, they come in plane glass and in silver and gold. The top of the tube is covered with a rubber cap which has a small hole in the middle of it. The orchid's stem is stuck through the hole into water and the tube is pinned on the lapel of your suit. Needless to say, the flower stays fresh all day, can be put into the icebox at night and worn the next day as well.

Beautiful Gardens A-Bloom in Dixon

Mrs. Ed Franks of 715 Third St., has each year beautiful flowers, and this year her garden is, and will be lovelier than ever. This morning she presented the publisher of The Telegraph with a bouquet of dainty apple blossoms in an artistic red wicker basket, the bouquet being most graceful and pleasing. Especially lovely each year are the dahlias and gladioli in Mrs. Franks' garden. Mrs. Orville Albright has some lovely flowers in bloom early as it is. The rains of the past few weeks have done much for vegetation of all kinds. If Old Sol will continue to smile flowers and fruit will multiply in abundance, in fact the garden "will blossom as the rose."

Dinner Honored Miss M. Janssen

Miss Vera Janssen of Nelson delightfully entertained at dinner on Thursday evening at her home, twelve guests, in honor of her sister, Margaret, who is soon to be the bride of Lee Huffman. The affair was a great surprise to the honored guest, and it was a doubly happy event, for it was also her birthday anniversary. The dinner table was beautifully decorated in pink and white. The centerpiece was a two-tier angel food cake decorated with a small bride and bridegroom, and glowing candles.

Miss Janssen received many lovely gifts from her friends present who wished her many happy returns of the day and also extended best wishes for happiness in the new home-to-be. The wedding date is set for June.

Bauer-Lebre Wedding Today; Beautiful Ceremony

This morning at 8 o'clock occurred the marriage of Miss Catherine Bauer, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bauer of 1001 South Galena Ave., and George Lebre, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. U. L. Lebre of 301 Cedar St.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father T. L. Walsh, pastor of St. Patrick's church, in the presence of the immediate families of the bride and groom.

The bride wore a navy blue ensemble with matching accessories and a shoulder bouquet of sweet peas and baby breath. She was attended by Miss Ruth Bartel of Sterling, her cousin, who also wore blue and a bouquet of sweet peas. The groom was attended by his brother, Eugene Lebre, of this city. After the ceremony a delicious wedding breakfast was served to the members of the two families of the bridal party by the bride's mother, assisted by Miss Helen Bartel of Sterling, a cousin of the bride.

Later in the day Mr. and Mrs. Lebre left by auto for a short trip and on their return will be at home to their friends in their newly furnished home at 416 East Seventh St., Dixon. The bride's going away suit was of tan with brown accessories.

Miss Bauer is a graduate of Our Lady of Angels Academy at Clinton, Iowa and has held the position of bookkeeper for J. L. Glassburn for the past several years. Mr. Lebre is a graduate of the Dixon high school and holds a position in the offices of the Illinois Northern Utilities of this city. Best wishes of their many friends go with them for a happy future.

Words Fail to Allay Child Terror

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

There isn't a bit of use being Pollyannish with little children when they are afraid of something. Don't you suppose when Johnny is going to the barber he knows what it is all about?

What is the use of saying, "Oh, come on darling. We'll go and see that lovely big pole with stripes like a big piece of candy. We'll see the beautiful big mirrors and all the shiny stuff and the big chairs that pump up."

Johnny knows very well that he's got to sit up straight and quiet, have a big thingumajig tied around his neck and hear the scissors going snip, snip all over his head and endure the nippy clippers on his neck.

Talk Is Futile.

No use, either if he is afraid of the electric sweeper, going into rhapsodies about how beautiful it keeps everything, about its wonderful wheels ("motor" would be lost on him) and the big yellow letters on the bag. No use saying "Why this sweeper likes little boys. It's singing to you." He knows it makes a noise that scares him and that's enough.

In short, we cannot talk a dread or a scare or a fright out of a child, no matter how simple a thing it is he has learned to be afraid of.

Johnny has to go to the barber of course, and the sweeper has to run. And the picture has to be taken at the photographers. The escalator or elevator has to be entered once in awhile. The thunder will come, the dark will descend, waves will wash and the world will be full of strange and unpleasant things even when Johnny is old enough to talk away trouble to his own little boys. There is always something to be "faced" as long as we live.

Establish Friendships.

While it is best not to compel a child to stand up to something that to him is a real terror, it is not getting us anywhere to overdo resistance.

When Johnny has to go to the dentist or the doctor the best way is to treat it as an everyday event. The less talk the better.

The minute we begin to tell him that Dr. Blank wouldn't hurt him for the world we are losing ground. It gets Johnny's suspicions up at once.

It does happen to be a good plan to have a child become friends with people he may have occasion to dread later on. Dentists and doctors themselves suggest that parents take children to see them, even though there is no trouble at the time. Little folk do not associate terror so much with people they know well, as with strangers. (Copyright, 1935, NEA Service,

GREAT MOTHERS

Susannah Annesley Wesley

SUSANNAH A. WESLEY

An intensely idealistic young Englishwoman, Susannah Annesley, was married in 1859 to the Reverend Samuel Wesley, clergyman of the Church of England. She became the mother of his nineteen children. Six of them died in infancy. Of the thirteen who survived, four became distinguished scholars. Two of the four attained world recognition. They were John Wesley, founder of the Methodist movement, and his almost equally well-known brother, Charles, writer of some of the most widely-sung hymns.

Susannah Wesley had an education far above the average. Though the family was exceedingly poor, she determined that none of her children should lack learning. When her husband was thrown into prison for debt, she managed the household and, by establishing a strict routine, was able both to care for her children's physical wants and to train them mentally.

She allowed no eating or drinking between meals. At seven the children were put to bed. The younger children had their own

OUR MILITARY LEADERS SEE THEIR SHADOWS

President Roosevelt did the right thing in squelching those overambitious army officers who had so much to say about American "war pans" in this hemisphere.

An army strategist is apt to say almost anything, of course, and it would be foolish to attach too much weight to the whole affair. And yet it is a timely warning of something that we usually fail to realize—the fact that militarism is a growth not confined to Europe and Asia, after all. We have our own share of it, and it's time we realized it.

Consider, for instance, the ideas which Brig. Gen. F.
M. Andrews, chief of the new General Headquarters Air Force, spread before a congressional committee recently.

We must, said General Andrews, keep our eyes on Newfoundland, the French islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon, Bermuda, the Bahamas, Jamaica, Trinidad, British Honduras and the lesser Honduras. Any or all these places would make dangerous enemy air bases in the event of war; we must keep them under surveillance, be ready to bomb them if we find air bases being developed on them, and be prepared to seize them by main force "if the situation is sufficiently vital to require it."

Nor is that all. Other army officers urge Congress to establish a huge air base in the Great Lakes border. They admit that Canada probably is not meditating war on the United States; but they point out that if any "hostile power" lodged itself in Canada, it would be within easy raiding distance of our great industrial centers.

Now all this is very little less than vicious. It represents militarism in its worst sense—the attitude of mind that sees everything in terms of military equation and ignores all the supremely important intangibles of international relations.

One of our greatest assets is the fact that we enjoy friendly relations with our neighbors. The Canadian border has gone unfortified for a century. The average American no more expects trouble from Newfoundland or Bermuda than he expects Pittsburgh to attack Cincinnati.

But such facts mean nothing to a militarist. There is foreign soil at our doorstep; it must be the soil of an enemy; let us spend huge sums and lay elaborate plans to repel attack, even if it means replacing international friendship with suspicion, fear, and dislike!

President Roosevelt did the right thing in making it clear that the vaporings of these officers in no way represents official American opinion.

STUDENTS AT WORK

The young man who works his way through college is apt to be a much better student than the one whose parents pay his way. This is the conclusion to be drawn from a survey just completed at the University of Southern California by Dr. Frank C. Touton, the university's vice president.

The survey compared the scholastic records of students participating in the federal government's program of part-time jobs for college undergraduates with those whose expenses were being met by their parents, and it found that the former group ranked higher in classroom marks, displayed a greater earnestness of purpose and, in general, seemed to be getting more out of college life.

This isn't hard to understand. The lad whose college expenses are paid for him can easily fall into the notion that college is just a pleasant and diverting lark. The one who is earning his way by the sweat of his brow knows what he is in college for, and does his best to make it worth the effort it is costing him.

DR. CONDON VINDICATED

You may have seen stories recently quoting a member of the Bronx county (N. Y.) grand jury of May, 1932, in which it was claimed that, when Dr. John F. Condon appeared before that body, he said that he would be unable to identify the man to whom he had paid the Lindbergh kidnaping ransom money.

In case you did, and wondered how Dr. Condon managed to make a definite identification of Bruno Hauptmann in court, you should be advised that a correction has been made.

The official minutes of the grand jury were made public the other day, and they refute this assertion completely. They show that when Dr. Condon was called, he not only said definitely that he could identify the ransom recipient if he ever saw him again, but gave a detailed description of the man which fits Hauptmann to a T.

It is to be hoped that the correction will speedily overtake the original false report.

SANE COLLEGE STUDENTS

The college graduate of tradition is supposed to be a know-it-all young man who leaves the campus for the outside world full of confidence that people are just going to fall all over themselves to give him jobs and get the benefit of his wisdom and energy.

The college graduate of real life in the year 1935 is not a bit like that. So, at least, says Vera Christie, manager of the Bureau of Occupations at the University of California, which is about to turn 3000 young graduates out into the cold world.

The old-time cockiness, she says, has vanished. The collegians have been doing some thinking, in these trying years, and they know what they're up against.

Having a greater awareness of reality, they have also more determination; they have ceased to look for soft snaps and are looking for a chance to be of service, instead.

The change is about as wholesome a thing for the country as a whole as could be imagined.

Wee Scouty hung on good and tight. The ink man said, "Gee, son, you're light. Why, I could carry you through streams like this the livelong day."

"I will not hurry on this trip 'cause, any minute, I might slip. Be patient and we'll reach the other bank. We're on our way."

"Then to the Tynmites we'll go. They will be very pleased, I know. I hope the pirate has not harmed them while you've been with me."

"When he was taken from my well, I thought that he would treat you swell." "And, so did I," said Scouty, "but he's mean as he can be."

And then they reached the nearby shore. "At last we're safe and sound once more," yelled Scouty.
"Now, we'll have to walk about a mile or so."

"I'd like to loaf and have some fun, but we'd lose time. Come on, let's run. When there is something to be done, just walking seems quite slow."

The ink man smiled and said,

"Well, lad, to run real fast I would be glad, but I am getting old. Perhaps you'd better run ahead."

He then heard little Scouty sigh and answer, "Aw, what good am I? I could not chase the pirate, so I'll walk with you, instead."

It wasn't very long until they reached the bunch, and what a thrill all of the little Tynies got.

"Three real loud cheers," cried one.
"That Scouty would return, I know, but he has brought the ink man, too. Now, we can tell him plainly, how the pirate spoiled our fun."

"I know about it," said the man,
"and I will help you, if I can. But,
look, you have the pirate bound.
You've stopped his trickery."

"I guess you do not need my aid." Then Doty said, "Oh, we're afraid that he will get away. Then you can punish him, you see."

BUSINESS THIS WEEK FELL OFF
REVIEW STATES

Slight Hesitation Reported by Dunn and Bradstreet Today

New York, May 11 — (AP) — A slight hesitation in the forward movement of business this week was reported in the weekly trade review by Dunn & Bradstreet.

"A pause in the forward movement of business was revealed by reports emanating this week from manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers in various parts of the country," the review said.

"This far, however, the recession appears to be only of trifling proportions and there was nothing to indicate a change in the upward trend."

"Among factors mentioned as contributing to the hesitancy were the seasonal slackening of industry, the vagaries of the weather, and the uncertainties regarding the outcome of national legislation."

Weather Is Blamed.

"As neither manufacturers nor retailers are holding burdensome inventories, the positions are viewed as favorable for a prompt response to stimulating influences which a change to more seasonal weather undoubtedly will bring, with hopes strong for a continuation of the upward movement before the close of the current month. * * *

"After a slow beginning, due to the cold and rainy weather, retail sales widened in nearly all parts of the country, and there was less unevenness to the gains reported than for the week preceding. * * *

For the country as a whole, nevertheless, retail sales were estimated at not more than 2 to 8 per cent in excess of the figures for the corresponding week last year."

Wholesale buying was reported running in excess of the comparative period of 1934 in most divisions but less than the previous week.

Filibuster Broken

Washington, May 11 — (AP) —
The filibuster conducted by Sena-broken Friday when the senate voted to consider the legislation.

The motion to take up the bill was made by Senator Norris (R-Neb.) and was quickly approved without a record vote.

The same motion had been pending before the senate for two days under a rule permitting debate and Austin occupied the floor most of the time, preventing a vote on it.

Whether the Vermont senator would filibuster against passage of the bill was not made known.

DIXON NINES ATTEMPTING FRESH WINS

All-Stars Called Best Team in Northern Illinois

Undeclared in two starts, the Dixon Independents nine will meet their severest test of the spring on Sunday at the Airport, when they collide with Illinois Valley All-Stars from LaSalle-Peru. The Dixon Dodgers will invade Sterling for a game with the Sterling Merchants at East End park, and the Dixon Hospital Club will again play the patients.

The Independents two weeks ago opened their season by holding the Rockford Polish National Alliance team to three hits for a 3 to 0 victory. Last Sunday the locals subdued the Amboy Shamrocks, 6 to 3 in a game featured by tight fielding by both teams. Smokey Joe Miller held the mound for three innings, and was relieved by Kelsey and Carlson. The three of them kept Amboy down to six hits. Watts and Malcahey shared the receiving end behind the plate. Dick Kehrt who played left field for the Independents, made his first trip to the plate rather inauspiciously by receiving a painful knee injury from a wild pitch that laid him flat on the plate writhing in agony for several minutes. He continued in the game however and brought in two runs in four trips to bat for a creditable box score.

The All-Stars have been classed among the best teams in northern Illinois. They have won considerable renown barnstorming through the midwest, particularly Iowa, where they met and defeated Gilkerson's Union Giants, famed Negro team that operates through northern Iowa and southern Minnesota. The Dodgers were forced into an idle Sunday last week when West Brooklyn cancelled the game because of the poor condition of the grounds. The Dodgers have not yet tasted a loss either, having beaten an East End team, Lee Center and the Nelson Cardinals. The probable battery for the Dixon this Sunday will be Henry, pitcher and Scriven, catcher. Watts, who assisted the Dodgers against Lee Center, will be in the lineup of the Independents. The Hospital Employees hold one victory over the Patients, and also one defeat at the hands of the same team. The contest between the two will be a rubber.

GREAT FILLY IS AFTER REVENGE FOR DERBY LOSS

Nellie Flag Starts This Afternoon in Preakness At Baltimore

Baltimore, May 11 — (AP) — Over the oval where her mother raced to victory eleven years ago, Warren Wright's Nellie Flag, daughter of the famous Nellie Morse, today sought to avenge her defeat in the Kentucky Derby when she faced William Woodward's Omaha, victor at the Downs, and nine other three-year old thoroughbreds in the 45th running of the $25,000 Preakness at Pimlico.

Beaten but not disgraced when she finished fourth in the Derby, Nellie Flag came up to today's race with both her owner and trainer, Burt Williams, confident she would stop short the parade of Woodward's big red horse to the championship of the division. Her work-outs this week have consisted of nothing more serious than short breezes but from the stable came the word she was ready to accept the issue over the one and three-sixteenths mile jaunt.

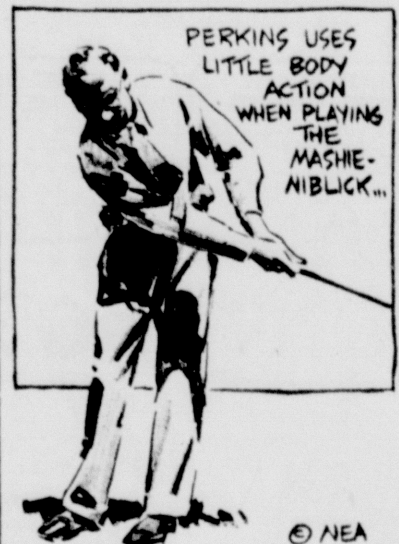

Omaha Is Favorite
The glory that was hers prior to the running of the Derby went to Omaha, however, for it was the son of Gallant Fox that was made the 6 to 5 pre-race choice to duplicate the 1930 triumph of his gallant sire. Omaha was so well fancied by the advance delegations of the expected crowd of thirty-five to forty-five thousand that he was expected to answer the call to boots and saddles at even money or less. Post time was 4:45 P. M. (CST.)

Although lacking some of the color that attended the running of the Derby, the Preakness promised a real horse race with three other horses which had mucked kicked in their faces at the Downs by Omaha, opposing the Derby winner, Like Nellie Flag. E. R. Bradley's Boxhorn, Mrs. Walter M. Jefford's Commonwealth and Mrs. Dodge C. Sloane's Psychic Bid were left far behind as Omaha roared through the stretch but each owner was con-

GOLF

By Art Krenz

Cleveland, May 11 — A phenomenal 66 by Gene Sarazen on the final round prevented T. Philip Perkins and Bobby Cruikshank from playing off for the 1932 United States Open golf championship at Fresh Meadow, L. I., after Perkins had hit what he considers the finest mashie-niblick shot of his career.

Kins had hit what he considers the finest mashie-niblick shot of his career.

"I was one above par for the round going to the final hole," explains Perkins, former British Amateur champion and now the professional at the fashionable Kirtland Country Club on the outskirts of Cleveland. "I required a 4 for a 71, which I believed would be good enough to win."

"My drive was 275 yards. I hit the second shot with a No. 7 iron 150 yards to a close green and was but 10 feet from the cup. The putt was holed for a three, which gave me an even 70 and a four-round total of 289."

"I had won the Open — or so everyone believed."

"But suddenly the word got around that Cruikshank had made a tough putt for a 68, giving him a tie with me which we would have to play off. Then, just as I began making plans for the playoff, word came that Sarazen had burned up the course with a 66, and finished three strokes under our 289's."

Perkins, in advising golfers how to master the mashie-niblick, says: "Use a narrow, square stance. Hit down on the ball with firm wrist action, and very little body action. Play the ball about the center between the two feet. Hitting against the left side will keep the ball in the line."

ident that there would be a different story today.

One Other Given Chance
Of the six horses yet to clash with Omaha only Walter M. Jefford's Firehorn, like the Woodward colt, a mediocre performer as a juvenile, was given a chance to be in front at the end of the journey. He will run coupled in the betting with Commonwealth as the trainer Preston Burch entry. Boxhorn also was given a running mate in Bloodroot, while Mantagna from DeWitt Page's Maemere Farm, W. A. Jones' Furber, Mrs. C. S. Bromley's Brannon and Legume, carrying the silks of Breckinridge Long, Ambassador to Italy, were rated strictly as outsiders.

Maroons. Defend New Conference Lead vs Hawkeyes

Chicago, May 11 — (AP) — The University of Chicago defends its right to the Big Ten baseball race leadership against Iowa today in the top number of a four-game conference schedule.

The surprising Maroons, who took the lead away from Illinois by defeating Wallie Roetter's team Tuesday, defeated Iowa, 5 to 4, yesterday for its fourth victory in five games. Minnesota moved up to third place by a 3 to 1 victory over Wisconsin, and Michigan beat Ohio State, 6 to 4. Purdue scored its second victory in seven games, a 7 to 3 decision over Indiana.

In addition to the Iowa-Chicago contest, Ohio State was at Michigan again, and Wisconsin was slated to finish a two-day stand at Minnesota. Illinois was at Evanston to meet Northwestern in the other tussle.

BERMUDA WOMEN ULTRA MODEST

Women were so modest in Bermuda three centuries ago they did not want to show even the edge of their ankle-length petticoats. Thus fireplaces were built with raised hearths so that the women who tended them would not need to bend over. In many of the old Bermuda homes there are three types of fireplaces, the ankle, knee and waist high. The two latter types were for the sake of modesty.

NAVAJOS' IDEA OF EATING

Navajos have many queer ideas about eating. One is that if one eats certain parts of liver, he will lose his friends; another, that cooking dumplings in the summer time will bring on a hailstorm. Goat ammonite meat are the principal diet among these Indians.

AMERICAN LOOP BAT AVERAGES BEGIN RISING

Arky Vaughan Lifts His Average to .455 in 21 Trips to Plate

New York, May 11 — (AP) — While the batting averages of all the National League leaders except the Pittsburgh pace setter, Arky Vaughan, dropped down toward mid-season levels during the past week, the American Leaguers showed a surprising upward tendency.

Vaughan, hitting ten times in 21 trips to the plate, brought his average up nine points to .455 to take the National League lead relinquished by Frank Hogan of Boston when an injury kept him idle and cost him temporarily his status as a "regular." Mel Ott also registered a slight gain but most of the others in the senior circuit's first ten suffered big losses.

In the American League Rollie Hemslay of St. Louis dropped from first place to third but his average went down only five points to .385. Meanwhile Jimmie Foxx and Bob Johnson of the Athletics sailed past him with gains of 15 and six points respectively. Foxx hit safely eight times in 18 attempts to hoist his average to .403 after yesterday's games while Johnson reached .392 with seven blows in 17 times up.

ODD FELLOWS ORDER

The Independent Order of Odd Fellows first originated in England during the first half of the Eighteenth century, probably as an outgrowth of rivalry to the Masonic fraternity, which had been revived about that time. The biggest English friendly society, the Manchester Unit of Odd Fellows, was organized from various lodges in 1813, and this society introduced the order into America in 1819. The hundredth anniversary of American Odd Fellowship was celebrated in 1919. For some years the American order was affiliated with the Manchester Unit, but in 1842 relations between the two were severed, and they have remained independent since.

TONY PUNCHED WAY BACK INTO FORMER CROWN

Canzoneri Defeated Ambers Last Evening in Title Engagement

BY ALAN GOULD

Associated Press Sports Editor

New York, May 11 — (AP) — It's an old ring axiom that they never come back but black-haired Tony Canzoneri, the dapper little fellow who looks like a miniature Babe Ruth and packs TNT in his right hand, today is the exception to prove the rule.

For all practical purposes, Canzoneri's decisive victory over Lou Ambers last night in 15 rounds at Madison Square Garden returns him to the status of lightweight champion of the world, successor to Chicago's Barney Ross, who recently relinquished the title, and the first fighter in the history of the class to regain the crown. Tony lost the championship to Ross in 1933 after holding it nearly three years.

It's official, so far as the New York state athletic commission is concerned and if there's a better lightweight in the ring, anywhere, he will have to prove it. The National Boxing association can make it unanimous by formal edict and probably will do so, but meanwhile, there's not the slightest doubt the former New Orleans bootblack has clinched a place among the great little fellows of modern ring history.

Thrills Crowd.

In recapturing a title that has been held by some of the finest craftsmen in fighting annals, Canzoneri thrilled a crowd of 17,433 cash customers, nearly packing the Garden, with as fine an exhibition of boxing skill as New York has witnessed since the eminent Benny Leonard turned back the challenge of Lefty Lew Tender at the Yankee Stadium a dozen years ago.

Canzoneri floored the rugged, stout-hearted Ambers twice in the third round with victorious right-handers and again blew the "Hurricane" down in the 15th round with a long belt to the chin as Lew was hustling to get out of the way. From start to finish, despite the rugged upstate boy's most courageous and aggressive

BIG SHOW THAT IS TRULY DIFFERENT

At Dixon, Monday, May 13 at Scholl's Circus Lots, Corner Van Buren and Eighth Street

ORVAL LUDEMAN AND HIS CHAMPION DOUBBLE AND TRIPLE SOMERSAULT LEAPS

The "World's Best Amusement Institution"—thus it has been officially acclaimed. Internationally famous, favored beyond all compare, Sterling Brothers Circus and Capt. William Seils Trained Wild Animal Shows Combined stands by itself as a gigantic entertainment for circus patrons. The merging of these two great shows comes as great news. To the Sterling Brothers, sole managers and directors of this Great Enterprise, the consolidation stands as the realization of a life-long ambition; to gather all that is wonderful and all that is novel in circus achievements into one vast ensemble and present it on a single program.

Day after day, in town after town, the Combined Shows exhibit such marvels as the world has never seen before. Fifty cars are required to transport its thousands of wonders. Yet with all the immensity of it—in spite of the fact that Capt. William Seils Trained Wild Animal Exhibition has now been added for good measure—all is presented for the price of one single admission.

The Seils-Sterling Circus has come to be the accepted circus. It is the standard circus, the all-satisfying circus. The public turns to it for its amusement. The newspapers of America devote many columns each year describing the marvels of it, and often dwell upon its many wonders on their editorial pages. It is a circus that is truly different.

efforts to turn the tide, Canzoneri had the situation under almost complete control. Tony outsmarted, outboxed and outpunched Lou so convincingly through the first ten rounds that the unanimous decision of Referee Arthur Donovan and the two judges was a formality at the finish.

On this observer's score card, Canzoneri captured nine rounds, with five going to Ambers and one even. Lou rallied briskly in the last four rounds but was abruptly halted when he failed to duck another dynamite-laden right, in the closing moments of the fight, and hit the floor, bouncing up without taking a count.

Tony scaled 133 pounds, Ambers 133½.

LANGUAGE WITHOUT WORDS

In Gomera, Canary Islands, the natives use a language without words which is whistled. It is said to have developed because of the physiography of the island with its impassable gorges. The aboriginal inhabitants discovered that whistling would carry farther than shouting and a whistling code grew from necessity.

PLUM HOLLOW'S COURSE GAINING IN POPULARITY

The recent rains and these beautiful sunlight days have brought out the greens and the fairways at the Plum Hollow Golf Club as well as the blossoms on the trees, and each day, especially in the afternoon, there is an increasing number of golf enthusiasts taking advantage of this beautiful golf course. This is the only public golf course in Lee county and the register shows not only guest players from Sterling, Amboy, Ashton and Polo, and surrounding towns, but many visitors from distant points who happen to stop in Dixon. Each of these players express their delightful appreciation of this sporty little course with its five concealed greens. The many hills tax the breathing apparatus of players who are accustomed to a flat course, however, they thoroughly enjoy this feature. Plans have been made by the Board of Directors to accommodate a much larger number of players this year than have ever used the course before.

Chicago Lightweight Program, Drab Affair

Chicago, May 11 — (AP) — The Chicago stadium didn't have a great deal in the way of lightweight championship timber today in return for a box-office loss of around $7000.

A crowd of less than 3000 paid $4761 last night to watch Cleto Locatelli of Italy mail out a ten-round decision victory over Joe Ghinoully of St. Louis, in the stadium's opening elimination bout to locate a successor to Barney Ross as 135-pound ruler, as far as Illinois is concerned.

The Illinois state athletic commission will not accept Tony Canzoneri, who regained recognition as champion by outpointing Lou Ambers at New York last night.

In the other lightweight number on the program, Leonard Del Genio, a New York youngster, knocked out Babe Daniels of Minneapolis in the sixth round of what was slated to go ten rounds. Del Genio floored Daniels twice before putting him away.

Chicago's White Cox, ousted from the lead Thursday, lost a chance to regain it when they took a second beating from Boston 12 to 2. Rallies of four runs in the first and five in the sixth drove George Earnshaw out while Gordon (Dusty) Rhodes pitched almost perfectly until an error cost him a shutout after leading 11-0. Ellsworth (Babe) Dahlgreen, rookie first baseman, smacked two homers, each with a man on base, to top the attack while Zeke Bonura hit his seventh four-master for the Pale Hose.

The entire National league program was rained out.

DAILY HEALTH

TOBACCO SENSITIVENESS

The widespread use of tobacco dates from about the time of Queen Elizabeth, and even since those days there has been much dispute as to how injurious smoking or other uses of tobacco may be. Also there has been no agreement among scientists as to what portion of the tobacco—that is, which of its numerous chemical ingredients—is injurious.

It was observed long ago that some persons readily acquire an immunity to tobacco and apparently suffer no evil effects from its long, sustained use. Others, on the other hand, quite markedly suffer when using tobacco. Some persons are indeed so sensitive that the mere presence of tobacco smoke in the air which they breathe suffices to make them uncomfortable.

Of late, we have acquired some essential information on the effects of tobacco. These data have given us a more satisfactory picture of the tobacco problem. To begin with, whereas formerly all the blame was cast on nicotine, we today know that as far as smoking tobacco is concerned, the injurious effect on the human organism is due more to some element other than nicotine, than to the nicotine itself.

Experimentally it has been shown that blood pressure rises during smoking. Small amounts of nicotine effect this by causing a constriction or tightening or narrowing of the blood vessels of the heart, lung, and of the liver.

But apart from nicotine effects, it has become evident that somewhere between 10 and 20 per cent of persons have what is called an allergic sensitiveness to tobacco. This allergic reaction means that the person is hypersensitive to some factor in tobacco. The hypersensitive person suffers most from smoking.

Summer Sweethearts

By Mabel McElliot © 1935, NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
 KATHARINE STRYKHURST, beautiful, 20, is discontented and restless because her wealthy father, VICTOR STRYKHURST, and her aristocratic stepmother, BERTINE, refuse to let Katharine undertake any sort of work. Katharine rides daily with MICHAEL, HEATHEROE, young westerner who runs a riding club. She assures herself she is not interested in Michael but feels a pang of jealousy when SALLY MOON, local coquette, enrolls at the club for lessons.

ZOE PARKER, Katharine's friend, returns from Europe where she has been taken to forget a love affair with GIBBS LARKIN, of whom her parents disapprove. Zoe accuses Katharine of being in love with Michael.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER III

LONG ago Katharine Strykhurst had decided to shut love out of her life as much as was humanly possible.

Her mother had died when she was nine. People say, "Children don't understand." But some children do. Katharine still remembered that day with a shudder—nurses hurrying to and fro in the old stone house; her father's racked sobs. She had understood only too well. The lovely, fair-haired, gracious mother had gone. There was no one in her place. Katharine was by nature a lonely child. A succession of governesses only intensified this loneliness. Many nights her pillow was wet with childish tears. Later her father had brought her a pet; a little Cairn terrier she dearly loved. When he was run over by a tradesman's car Katharine had dried her tears and had said angrily and stoically to herself: "All right, I won't love anybody or anything again."

She had tried to keep that promise. The entrance of her stepmother into her life, when Katharine was 13, had not really meant much. Katharine had been polite to the well-dressed, pleasant-faced Bertine. She had never called her mother.

The second Mrs. Strykhurst, who had a good figure and a sense of humor, hadn't tried to "win Katharine over" by fair means or foul. Now, after more than seven years, they were friends, if not completely allies.

So, this fine summer morning, when Zoe Parker, wrapped in thoughts of the man she loved, accused Katharine of being a victim of the grande passion, it is small wonder that the tall, fair girl in riding clothes turned on her companion almost angrily, denying it.

"I never heard anything so ridiculous," Katharine said.

"Well, honestly, Kay," cried Zoe, nettled in her turn, "anybody'd think falling in love was a disgrace."

"Well, leave me out of it, won't you?" Katharine said with cool dignity.

"I CAN'T. You're one of the blooming human race," Zoe cried, with a peal of laughter. All at once both girls were restored to good humor.

"There, that's better!" cried Zoe. "Now, can you ride over to the Ridge and back? It'll only take 15 minutes. I want to talk to you."

"All right," Katharine agreed, ashamed of her earlier flare of temper. There was just no use flashing out at Zoe. She was the most amiable person in the world, if a trifle silly.

"Everybody thinks I've forgotten Gibbs," Zoe said, "but I can't—I just can't. Kay, I've got to see him!"

"But my car's here," she protested, after deliberation. "I'll have to stop by again and pick it up."

Would Michael think she was making excuses to see him? Men were so terribly conceited. After the other day when he had so rudely seized her wrist and spoken so sharply, when they were taking shelter from the storm in that way-side cabin, she scarcely knew what to think of Michael.

Zoe plotted the little car skillfully up the hilly road winding westward in a zig-zag pattern away from Innbrook. From the rise you could look back and see the village, lying sleepy in the morning haze, and a line of blue beyond that marked Long Island Sound.

Zoe ran the car into the shadow of a pine-oak and shut off the engine.

"Nice up here!"

"I love it," Katharine agreed. There were farms on either side of the River Road; unpainted barns and rail fences hemming in fields of clover and rows of sprouting corn. Some day, in the not far distant future, all this would be taken over by a suburban development company. There would be Moorish villas and golf tees where all was rustic simplicity now.

"It's nothing to do with me," Katharine said. "Why drag me in?"

"You'll know some day," cried Zoe with spirit, mopping her eyes. "Then you'll be sorry you were so unkind."

Katharine melted. "I didn't mean to be, honestly. What can I do to help?"

THEIR conferences usually ended this way. Katharine was the stronger of the two, yet the soft, yielding Zoe could usually bend her to her way of thinking.

"I thought we might get our parents to let us take a trip together," she began.

"But you've only just got back," Katharine said.

"I know, but we could say we wanted to do New England—the antique shops and so on."

"And skip up to Maine and see Gibbs? Is that it?"

Zoe nodded.

Katharine frowned. "It's much too transparent. Bertine would be sure to see through it. She's much quicker than your mother about things like that."

"She'd never suspect you," said Zoe slyly, "of deceit."

Katharine flushed. "It was true. Bertine would think that she would look after Zoe properly. Well, and she would, too!"

"No, I can't possibly do it!"

Zoe began to cry. She cried prettily; she didn't twist or screw her features up as so many women do. She just sat quietly and let the large, crystal drops gather and fall, touching them every now and then with the folds of the now delicately pleated handkerchief.

Katharine felt a surge of impatience. "Oh, do stop that!" she said crossly. "Gibbs is almost 40 and he'll be fat in no time at all. And you know well enough he had heaps of affairs—with married women, too. No wonder your mother is against him! She has a perfect right to be."

"But I love him," Zoe protested, blue eyes swimming, red lips pouting. "You just won't understand. You're so—so hard about it, Kay. Just wait till you fall..."

High School Notes

This town is bound by tradition. People have the idea that since a thing has been done in a certain way, since the time of their fathers, it should be continued in that way. One thing should be considered. Times are not the same. We have the same kind of air, water and sunshine as in the past, but our knowledge is much greater. Knowledge of our ancestors was used to produce our civilization, and our knowledge brings more advancement in its train. We should prepare to use this. Look back to the days of childhood. Remember the roads, farming methods, communications, and conveniences of that time. Would you exchange the possessions of your modern life for them? We see that life has changed even in your life time. Can't we assume that further changes will occur. If everyone would help to bring them about at the present time, much could be done to further Franklin Grove's interest. Look forward; not backward.

The Home Economics class has been serving luncheons as well as preparing them, recently. Each member of the class works out a menu and appoints other members to certain jobs of cookery. He then invites a teacher or a friend to the luncheon that he has prepared. He has beforehand, appointed two pupils to be host and hostess and they perform these duties. The meal is correctly served by courses. This program will be followed until Tuesday, when work will be started on preparation and serving of dinner.

Georgia Peterman representing Franklin Grove at the State Music and Literary contest at Normal, Saturday as the result of her winning first place in the sub-district and district contests recently. She competed in the verse-speaking division. Thirteen schools were entered, Macomb winning first place with Granite City and Auburn winning second and third, respectively. Georgia has done very good work in her first year of verse, reading and has gained valuable experience at the contests, which she has attended. The school looks forward to more good work from her next year.

The Juniors are very busy preparing for the Junior-Senior banquet on the 17th of May at the Colonial Inn at Grand Detour. Invitations were issued Tuesday of this week. The Juniors say that it will be of the high lights in the social calendar for the year and it promises to be so.

The calendar for the Senior activities during the closing week of school is as follows:

Junior-Senior banquet, May 17.

Senior play, May 24th.

Baccalaureate, May 26th.

Commencement, May 28.

At a tea given to the mothers of the girls in the G. A. A., May 3rd, the following program was presented. Examples of marching, formalities, exercises and folk dances consisting of the Little Farmer Boy by the freshmen and sophomores and the Kinderpolka by the juniors and seniors. Various stunts were performed by the girls. Iced tea and cookies were served as refreshments.

The Green River Valley Conference track meet postponed from last Thursday because of weather conditions, will be held here Monday, May 13th, if weather permits.

Saturday the track boys go to the state district meet at LaSalle. We hope to place in several events.

Today the school basketball team takes Stillman on here. This is the first home game of the season. Steward comes here for a game Tuesday, come out and watch it. This will be a good game.

Band to Present Concert

The Franklin Grove City band will present the only strictly musical event of the year when they give their benefit concert on May 16. The 1935 band in a short period of four weeks, already has a professional organization which compared favorably with any of the best bands in northern Illinois. If you enjoyed the concerts of last year be sure and be on hand for a real treat.

of standard and new classics as well as a host of numbers by the band's vocalists—Scott Smith, Fred Kesseling and Russel Watts.

An added feature will be several trumpet duets by R. E. Mackaman and his son. Mr. Mackaman is an outstanding soloist on his instrument, having played solo trumpet with the Strand Theater Orchestra in Cleveland, WTM staff soloist at Waterloo and a host of other professional bands.

News Wanted

It is indeed very gratifying when some one calls us and gives us from one to several items. We sure do appreciate the co-operation we have among our friends and feel to thank them publicly for their thoughtfulness. It is only through the kindness of friends that we are able to maintain the Franklin items being unable to go out and get them. We do urge those of you who feel just a little restraint in this matter to call us any time and give us the item. You may not think it worth much, but there is sure to be someone interested in it. We appreciate every item, small or large.

Good Peach Crop Likely in Southern Illinois

Centralia, Ill., May 11—(AP)—In his report at the 14th annual meeting of the Illinois Fruit Growers Exchange here Friday Manager Harry W. Day, declared prospects were good for a crop of 5,000 carloads of peaches in southern Illinois. The peaches he said, should bring reasonably good prices this year.

Despite indications of scab in many apple orchards, the fruit exchange manager declared a survey points to a fair apple crop.

"The extreme drought," he said injured the strawberry plantings during last season and as a result the acreage of berries to be harvested this year will be far below normal.

Inferior Dry Cleaning Will Ruin Good Clothes

Inferior dry cleaning will quickly ruin good clothes. Materials improperly cleaned grow old and lose their elasticity and strength. Dirt and perspiration acids are not removed but merely dissolved, mixed with dust and grime and spread throughout the entire fabric. Save your clothes by having them cleaned at Potter's.

It has been our own personal experience that Ice is becoming more and more popular for refrigerating purposes.

CLEAR CRYSTAL ICE CUBES GO WITH AIR CONDITIONED REFRIGERATORS

Prices Range from $22.50 to $65.00

1. Temperature

Any refrigerator will furnish temperature.

2. Moisture

Ice refrigeration alone keeps your food moist eliminating loss of flavor by drying out. Closing the food up in containers eliminates ventilation making a bad matter worse.

3. Ventilation

Ice refrigerators keep your food from odor-tainting. The constantly circulating odor-laden air from your food is cleansed by the moist surface of the ice, cleaning and sweetening the whole interior of the refrigerator.

The amount and character of these odors and gases given off are clearly shown as the slime that accumulates in the ice refrigerator drain, or when defrosting an electric refrigerator.

Come in and let us explain these well known facts to you personally; we will do so cheerfully. If it is not convenient for you to call at the office we will call for you and return you to your home without obligation to you.

Modern Air Conditioned Refrigeration, depending upon model chosen, at one dollar ($1.00) down and one dollar ($1.00) each week. A large range of prices. Settle your household refrigerating problems permanently by getting one of these MODERN AIR CONDITIONED REFRIGERATORS.
